Required Text and Supplements

Borjas, George J. Labor economics. Vol. 5. Boston etc: McGraw-Hill, 2010.

Course Objectives:

This course analyzes the Labor input in the economy, addressing topics of labor supply and labor demand, theories and practice of wage determination, and how wage structures and wage differentials develop and evolve. Macro-institutional forces related to labor, labor markets, and wages are considered, including labor force participation, evolution and change in labor markets, employment, and unemployment. Trends, measurement and analyses of labor productivity, labor mobility, labor market discrimination, and the role of government and unions in labor markets are further considered.

Learning Outcomes

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

- 1- Demonstrate an understanding of basic labor economics theory, including labor market structures and wage determination.
- 2- Apply their understanding of theoretical models to analyze trends in data pertaining to topics in labor economics.
- 3- Apply their understanding of theoretical models to case studies presented in the course.
- 4- Construct, defend, and analyze important labor policy issues.
- 5- Comprehend, assess, and criticize existing empirical work in labor economics.
